Echo Refinery

The Echo Refinery facility is a UMO feedstock refinery that produces distillate, naphtha, gasoline, kerosene, and bunker residuals. The Echo Refinery is located at 11-08-009-17W3 in the rural municipality of Bone Creek, near Instow, Saskatchewan. The Echo Refinery was constructed by Echo Refinery Ltd. in 2018.

The Echo Refinery relies on feedstock supplied by several large waste management and recycling companies. Feedstock suppliers include Environmental 360 Solutions, Recycle West Inc., and GFL Environmental Services Inc.

Township 9, Range 17 W3

IRRC is the main operating entity through its ownership and operation of the Echo Refinery.

The Lands consist of 49.39 acres. The Echo Refinery is comprised of a 20-hectare gated property with an earthen perimeter berm. Facility operations are primarily limited to a 2.3-hectare area within the southeast portion of the Lands. Shipping modes include bulk liquid tankers, vacuum trucks and rail.

Ownership

Echo Refinery's operations include the UMO processing plant, UMO inlet tank farm, processing/sales tank farm and a surface water retention pond located adjacent to the eastern berm.

All systems associated within the UMO processing plant are computer controlled from the motor control centre building. Operation and monitoring of processing equipment can also be conducted remotely from an off-site device through a secured connection.

Echo Refinery Overview

The Echo Refinery includes the following primary buildings and infrastructure onsite:

Shop	Operations, motor control centre, wash car, and lab buildings (modular)
Cold storage Coverall building
UMO tank farm	Chemical building with tanks
Process tank farm	Dehydrator and process kettles
Process area equipment	Combustor
Single track rail spur	Concrete apron in process area and concrete loading pads
Water supply well and building	Intermodal shipping container storage
Natural gas supply	Power supply and transformer

The modular buildings, kettles, and process equipment are mounted on piles. Both tank farms have lined steel containment rings with concrete pads.

The Echo Refinery is surrounded by an earthen berm comprised of topsoil stripped from the yard. An existing groundwater monitoring network consisting of five monitoring wells is in place on the Lands.
